It is not possible to register a NZ domain name for a period of 2 years. Call us for advice if you're unsure. NZ Domain fees are usually around $50 or less per year.

Go In Direct

Some of our customers are still getting caught out with this nasty software. Go In Direct can install itself on your computer when you visit certain adult websites. You will find it installs a new connection icon in MY COMPUTER > DIALUP NETWORKING. It disconnects you from your ISP, and dials up an overseas tolls number, running up a large phone bill. Please be very careful!

Dialing in to Quicksilver

When dialling one of our local area dialup numbers, please remember NOT to dial the area code, as you may be charged for this by your toll call provider. All you need do is enter the local phone number. Call us if you need help with this.

Your esteemed newsletter author is a big fan of fresh NZ fashion (or at least window shopping!) and our designers deserve huge recognition for their shows last week. Here's a list of just a few NZ design and fashion websites to keep you going.

FashioNZ is the grand mommy of NZ fashion websites, and contains links to many wonderful designers. Start here and you'll find yourself wandering for hours through the many designers.

QuickTip of the MONTH

What's the difference between .com .co.nz .net.nz and all the others?

Originally .com stood for "commercial". These days .com is more commonly chosen for US websites, or for websites who don't want to be tied to a specific country.

.co.nz stands for NZ Company, and was originally for NZ commercial websites. .co.nz is not moderated however, so anyone can register a .co.nz domain name, and .co.nz has become the favourite for most NZ websites.

DOMAIN NAMES

.net.nz was originally for network related websites, such as ISP's. Again, the original meaning has been lost, and now .net.nz is generally used as an alternative to the .co.nz version.

Do I need to register the .net.nz version of my domain name?

You do not have to register the .net.nz version of your domain name, and the only advantage of doing so is ensuring that

- a) people will still get to you if they type .net.nz instead of .co.nz
- b) It secures the domain and stops anybody else from registering it.

Where can I check Domain name availability?

For NZ domain names, go to <http://www.domainz.net.nz> and search for the domain you're interested in.

How much will it cost me?

NZ domain names currently cost $74 + GST for the first year, and $44 + GST each year after that. This pricing is changing in February. You'll also need to choose a webhosting plan with Quicksilver. Find out more at:
